After Jesus was crucified, some of his disciples were discouraged. Two of them set out on a long walk to the village of Emmaus.

They thought it was all over, that Jesus had not really been the “chosen one,” the Messiah.

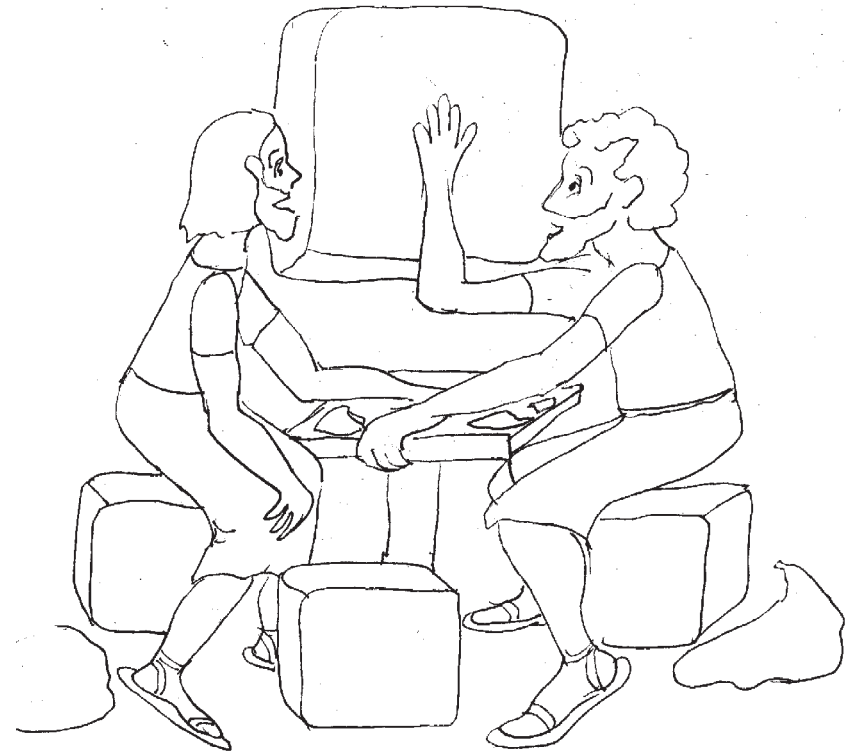

On the way, a man started to walk along with them. He asked them why they were so sad. They told him about the crucifixion.

As he walked along with them he began to talk with them about all the prophecies in the Bible that told about Jesus.

Who do you think the stranger was? Why do you think they didn't recognize him?

When they reached their destination they went in to have something to eat. The stranger blessed the bread and broke it apart to give it to them. They finally recognized him!

As soon as they knew who he was, he vanished.
